

Municipal Waste Solutions from a single source

With over a century of experience, Veolia Environmental Services offers an unparalleled level of service, quality, reliability and dedication to the communities we serve. As the only full-service provider of environmental services in North America, we offer an exceptional depth and breadth of value and expertise.

Reducing cost

Veolia Environmental Services applies the latest technologies along with a focused, experienced approach to project management, providing up-to-the-minute solutions for today's ever-changing environmental challenges.

Allowing Veolia Environmental Services to bid on your municipalities' waste and recycling services is a good method to guarantee the best available pricing to your residents and community.

It's all about the community

By exemplifying the highest ethical and environmental standards, Veolia Environmental Services has developed a set of values that includes improving quality of life, creating and sharing values and anticipating change. We put these principles to work every day, in every location, to make the communities we service better places in which to live and work. Veolia Environmental Services is committed to utilizing local work forces, creating new jobs, participating in local charities and becoming an integral part of the communities we proudly serve.

Working smart, working safe

Customers and employees are our greatest asset and their safety cannot be compromised. At Veolia Environmental Services safety is not merely a philosophy or sign on the wall. Providing and maintaining a safe and healthy work environment is a priority for each and every Veolia Environmental Services employee. To some it may sound like a slogan, but we are proud to contribute to the quality of life for future generations.

Focusing on transition

At Veolia Environmental Services, we believe communities shouldn't have to sacrifice quality to receive the most cost-effective service—and we understand your concerns regarding transition. After all, we've been doing it right for years. We have a proven track record of customer satisfaction, with more than one million industrial, commercial and residential customers across the U.S. and more than 450 municipal contracts.

Commitment to quality and value

Our services improve the appearance of your community by providing state-of-the-art equipment. Veolia Environmental Services maintains a professional and sanitary approach to servicing a community's needs.

Staying power

When it comes to partnering with municipalities—from compliance with EPA standards, to saving taxpayer dollars by providing high-quality service at highly competitive rates—the bottom line is the same: you can count on Veolia Environmental Services to be there for the long haul. We have a history of successfully partnering with communities to preserve valuable resources and extend landfill capacity through waste reduction, curbside collection and the processing and marketing of recyclables.

Consolidating vendors and leveraging buying power

Veolia Environmental Services has the capabilities and resources to manage all of your municipal solid waste and environmental service needs, allowing you to eliminate the extra costs associated with using multiple suppliers. Partnering with Veolia Environmental Services gives access to the expertise and services of a worldwide network of companies that employ more than 300,000 people and operate in over 100 countries. By choosing Veolia Environmental Services, you can eliminate the hassles of managing multiple contractors, allowing you to simplify the coordination of operational efforts.
